Description:

Similar to its neighbor to its east is this one story, three bay bungaloid or "Cape Cod" style frame house. It is covered with wide wooden siding which may be original. Front windows are doubled with six over six light sash. The front entrance is in the center bay and is protected by a gabled entrance porch.

This is one of the many houses from the second quarter of the 20th century on the streets south of Baltimore Street, reflecting Funkstown's growth and development during that period.
